Short test 2

1

Finish the following dialogue:

Once there was a rich man who lived all his life by himself. He had a very good servant. The servant always kept his master's house, clothes and shoes very clean. When this good servant became too old, the rich man brought another one to take his place. Although the new servant was young, he was lazy. One day, the rich man returned home to find his house, clothes and shoes dirty. He asked the young servant why he had not cleaned his shoes. The lazy servant said they would get dirty again as it was raining and that he had spent the morning preparing his meal. The rich man had his dinner and left nothing for his servant to eat. The hungry servant asked for food. The rich man said that the servant didn't need to eat as he would be hungry again. It would be a waste of time to give him any food and that was a good lesson for the young lazy servant.

A- Answer the following questions:
